

Seasonal Hurricane Prediction

Some scientists are trying to predict how many tropical storms, hurricanes, and major hurricanes there will be each year. One of the most well known scientist that makes such predictions is Dr. William Gray, a professor at Colorado State University. Each year, Dr. Gray makes his first prediction in November for the following tropical season. Gray then makes several updates to this forecast, one in April, then in June, and a final update in August.